4.2. Activation of the Product

The Product ordered will be activated on the Customer's Account after the Contract is duly concluded, i.e. after the Payment is made in compliance with Article 5 of these GBTC, unless the Special Conditions of the Product stipulate otherwise.

After the login to the Account, the Customer will see all the activated Products and their results in the User Interface, including the above-mentioned possible claims against the Company.

After the expiry of this time period, the Product must be fully functional. The Customer, who is a Consumer, is aware of the fact that the activation of the Product represents the delivery of digital content and that, therefore, after the Product has been activated, he/she is not entitled to withdraw from the Contract without stating a reason within a standard period of fourteen (14) days from the date of conclusion of the Contract. By concluding the Contract, the Customer explicitly agrees with the fact that his/her Product may be activated before the expiry of the period of fourteen (14) days from the date of conclusion of the Contract.

5. Payment terms

5.1. The Payment

5.2. Payment method

The Customer is entitled to make the Payment in Fiat Currencies or in Cryptocurrencies stated on the Website as accepted payment methods. The Company reserves the right to charge a fee for certain methods of payment. A possible fee will always be stated in the Order Form.

5.3. The Payment in Fiat Currency

The Payment in some of the offered Fiat Currencies is made in a cashless manner, by wire transfer to the bank account stated in the confirmation of the Order (hereinafter referred to as the “Bank Account”). The confirmation of the Order includes any other payment instructions, which the Customer hereby undertakes to follow, so that his/her Payment can be properly identified.

The Payment is considered made the moment it is credited to the Bank Account. If the Payment is not made within thirty (30) days from the date of dispatch of the Order, the Company is entitled to reject the Order. In such a case, the Order is cancelled, and the Contract shall not be concluded.

5.4. The Payment in Cryptocurrency

The Payment in some of the offered Cryptocurrencies is made in a cashless manner, by sending it to the address generated in the User Interface after the Order Form has been dispatched. The Payment is considered made the moment it is credited to the virtual wallet specified in the Order Form. In such a case, the Order is cancelled, and the Contract shall not be concluded.

5.5. Receipt form, billing

After the Payment has been received, the Company, without undue delay, will send a receipt form or an invoice to the Customer, if it is issued in connection with the Product purchased. The Company will do so electronically to the Customer's email address.

A possible complaint about the receipt form or the invoice must be filed electronically to the Company's email address, with a verifiable justification. If the complaint was not filed on time or in a proper way, it is deemed that the Customer has approved the receipt form or the invoice.

5.6. VAT

The seller is a VAT payer pursuant to the applicable legislation of the Slovak Republic. If, in compliance with the Special Conditions of the Product, VAT applies to the Product, the sum of the Payment on the Website includes the VAT rate.

5.7. Other payments

A duty can arise from the Special Conditions of some Products to pay regular payments; in such a case, the provisions of this Article will be applied mutatis mutandis.

6. Claims against the Company

After the Customer's logging into the Account, the Customer will have access, in the User Interface, to the Products purchased and their results or possible claims against the Company. Possible claims against the Company always arise from the Special Conditions of the Product, which may entitle the Customer to the payment of specified sums from the Company. The terms and conditions of the payment of any sums from the Company are governed by the Special Conditions of the Product.

If the Account is suspended, cancelled or restricted in any way under these GBTC, the Customer's existing claims against the Company shall not be affected thereby.

7. Rights arising from defective performance

7.1. Rights arising from defective performance

The Customer is entitled to exercise the rights from defective performance.

The provision of a selected Product is defective, if it does not have specified properties, if it is not provided with the relevant properties and under the terms and conditions stipulated by these GBTC or the Special Conditions of the Product.

The Customer is entitled to withdraw from defective performance if the Product is defective at the moment of its activation using the procedure pursuant to the Article 4.2 of these GBTC, even if the defect will be detected later. Defects are both obvious and latent defects.

The Customer is obliged to inform the Company of obvious defects immediately after the activation of the Product, no later than within seven (7) days of the date of activation. The Customer takes note that after the Product has been activated, he/she will be obliged to pay usual attention to detect the obvious defects. The Company may not recognise the later reporting of an obvious defect.

If the defect occurs during six (6) months from the activation of the Product, it is deemed that it existed at the moment of takeover, and in such a case, the Customer is not obliged to prove the moment of occurrence of the defect to the Company.

If the defect is removable, the Company is obliged to remove the defect or to provide an adequate discount. If the defect cannot be removed, and if this defect prevents the Product from being used, the Customer is entitled to withdraw from the Contract pursuant to these GBTC or to request an adequate discount.

7.2. The exercise of rights from defective performance

If the Product provided has an obvious or a latent defect, the Customer is entitled, within the period of twenty-four (24) months from the provision of the Product, to lodge a complaint. The complaint may be lodged electronically only by means of the Company email address, with an inspectable justification.

If these are essential defects, the Customer will be entitled to choose from one of the following rights: removal of the defect, adequate discount or withdrawal from the Contract. The Customer shall state the right which he/she has chosen upon the lodging of the complaint, but he/she cannot change his/her selection without the Company's consent. If the Customer does not choose the right from defective performance, the Company, within his/her complaint, will proceed in the same way as in the case of reporting an insignificant defect, as set out below.

If the defect is of an insignificant nature, the Customer may request the removal of it or an adequate discount. The Customer shall state the right which he/she has chosen upon the lodging of the complaint, but he/she cannot change his/her selection without the Company's consent. If the Customer does not exercise his/her right to an adequate discount, or if he/she does not withdraw from the Contract, the Company will be entitled to remove the defect.

7.3. Complaint procedure

The Company will decide on a complaint no later than within three (3) working days from the moment the complaint was received, and it will inform the Customer of the acceptance or rejection of the complaint in writing. The Company is obliged to handle the complaint within thirty (30) days from the proper lodging of the complaint, and the Company, with the Customer's consent, is entitled to extend the complaint period.

Any communication relating to the complaint is done by means of email communication.

The costs of the complaint are borne by the Company, with the exception of the costs of communication relating to the complaint borne by the Customer him-/herself.

8. Duties relating to AML

8.1. Liable person

The Customer is aware of the fact that the Company, i.e. a legal entity providing services relating to virtual currencies, is a so-called liable person under the relevant legislation in connection with AML.

The Customer takes note that the Company, from the position of a liable person, is obliged, inter alia, to properly identify and control the Customer, to keep information relating to the Customer and to the transactions carried out by him/her, to report a suspicious transaction, or to postpone the fulfilment of an order.

8.2. The Customer's collaboration

The Customer declares that if asked by the Company, he/she will provide any collaboration in the fulfilment of the Company duties pursuant to the relevant legislation in connection with AML, especially, he/she will, without undue delay, provide any documents and information necessary for the verification of the Customer's identity, as well as documents and information in relation to the sources of the funds and Cryptocurrencies used and for the purposes of transactions.

8.3. The Customer's declaration

The Customer declares that the funds or Cryptocurrencies sent by him/her do not come from criminal activities, and that the purpose of sending the funds to the Company does not consist in money laundering or transactions, the objective of which is supporting or financing terrorism under the relevant legislation in connection with AML.

The Customer further declares that he/she is not a politically exposed person or a person against which international sanctions are applied. The Customer undertakes to inform the Company without delay if there is a change in his/her status according to the previous sentence.

8.4. Supervisory body

The activity of the Company, as a liable entity, falls under the supervision of the relevant Financial Intelligence Unit.

9. Confidentiality and reputation of the Company

9.1. Obligation of confidentiality

Without the Company's written consent, the Customer must not disseminate or provide third parties with confidential information of the Company or the Related Companies, which includes any information or facts relating to their activity, know-how, the Products offered, technical and commercial procedures, business strategies and business contacts. The obligation of confidentiality does not apply to the information that is publicly available or publicly known.

9.2. Prohibition of interference with reputation

Simultaneously, the Customer's action must not in any way damage the reputation of the Company or the Related Companies.

9.3. Consequences of the breach

The breach of duties pursuant to this article represents a serious breach of the Contract. The Company is entitled to terminate the Contract with immediate effect, if it learns of such a breach. The termination is without prejudice to the possible further claims of the Company or the Related Companies against the Customer.

9.4. Duration of duties after the expiry of the Contract

The duties pursuant to this article survive the expiry of the Contract.

10. Protection of intellectual property

10.1. Rights to the Website

The Website, the User Interface and any content of them are protected by the Company's right to intellectual property and they also can be protected by further rights of third parties, especially the Related Companies. The Customer is entitled to browse and download the content of the Website, however, for personal, non-commercial use only. The Customer is not entitled to reproduce, make copies of, distribute, sell, transfer, change, modify or otherwise interfere with the content of the Website in any way, or to use it for other purpose contrary to the meaning of the Contract.

Trade marks, commercial designations, logos, graphic elements, design, site layout, photographs, videos, software, texts or other elements located on the Website, registered or not, represent the intellectual property of the Company or some of the Related Companies, and, without the prior written consent, they must not be used by the Customer in any other way than the way intended by these GBTC.

The Customer is liable for any damages that the Company or some of the Related Companies will incur due to the prohibited use of the Website.

10.2. Further prohibited methods of use

When using the Website, the User Interface or the Account, the Customer undertakes to comply with the applicable legal regulations and these GBTC and not to damage the reputation of the Company or some of the Related Companies in any way.

The Customer undertakes not to interfere with the security, technical substance or content of the Website, not to decompile and re-analyse the Website (reverse engineering), not to collect data from the Website (web mining), not to use the Website in order to send unsolicited messages (spam), and not to send to the Website messages that contain viruses or any other dangerous or malicious programs.

11. Danger and risks

11.1. Nature of Cryptocurrencies

The Customer takes note that Cryptocurrencies may not be suitable for everyone. Before entering into the Contract, the Customer is obliged to acquire sufficient information about Cryptocurrencies, Blockchain and the Product offered, in order to make sure that the Product selected is suitable for him/her and that it corresponds to his/her financial situation. The Company is not responsible for inappropriate Product selection.

The Customer takes note that any action or provision of services related to Cryptocurrencies is extremely risky, that Cryptocurrencies are not a regulated and centralised tool, the value of which has been insured by public legal entities, and that the change in their value or quantity is fully dependent on the action of other private persons.

The Customer is acquainted with the fact that the value of Cryptocurrencies may decrease (even to zero) or increase, without their value being affected by the Company in any way. The Customer understands and is aware of the fact that the value and quantity of the Cryptocurrency, which represents the Customer's claim against the Company, is not affected and covered by the Company in any way, i.e. that with regard to the nature of the Cryptocurrency, his/her claim can end up in a negative value due to the exchange rate development. The Company is not responsible for the exchange rate development of any Cryptocurrency, including its disappearance.

The Customer takes note that business activity relating to Cryptocurrencies is analysed in detail on the part of public authorities, and legislation in relation to this activity may significantly change. Such change may also affect the Company's activity in the future. In such a case, it may be necessary for the Company to make necessary changes in its activity, as well as in these GBTC or in the Special Conditions of individual Products. The Company is not liable for any damage that the Customer could incur due to such changes.

By concluding the Contract and by agreeing with these GBTC and the Special Conditions of the Product, the Customer accepts any risks connected with Cryptocurrencies.

11.2. The risk of shutdown of the Website

The Company will make every effort to ensure that the Website, the User Interface and the Account are always available and that they are protected against common risks, however, the Company is not responsible for the shutdown of the Website, the User Interface or for the inaccessibility of the Customer's Account caused by force majeure, which the Company could not control in any way or avoid. Moreover, the Company is not responsible for changes in or non-functionality of the Website caused by unauthorised access, especially by a hacker attack or a denial of service type of attack. The Company is not liable for any damage that the Customer could incur due to the shutdown or the unauthorised access, or for possible lost profit in the case of maintenance of the Website.

11.3. Risk of damage

The Company bears the risk of damage caused to the Customer due to the breach of the Company's duties during the provision of the Product. Failure to provide the agreed Product due to a force majeure event (vis maior), which the Company could not control or foresee, is not considered damage caused by the Company to the Customer.

The Company is not responsible for unexpected events, which include events caused by vis maior or cyber attacks of third parties, the threat of which the Company could not foresee and prevent their consequences. Further, the Company does not bear the risk of damage (i.e. it is not liable for damage), unless it is proven that the damage to the Customer's rights would occur otherwise.

12. Privacy Policy and Use of Cookies

12.1. Data subjects

When performing Contracts concluded pursuant to these GBTC and when operating the Website, the personal data of the Customer and other visitors to the Website, who are in the position of data subjects (hereinafter referred to as "Data Subjects"), are processed.

12.2. Basic rules of the processing

The Company makes sure that the processing of personal data of the Data Subjects is legal, fair and transparent. The Company processes personal data always for specific purposes arising from established legal bases, and ensures that each processing of personal data of the Data Subjects is carried out in compliance with regulations on personal data protection, especially in compliance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 April 2016 on the Protection of Individuals with Regard to the Processing of Personal Data and on the Free Movement of Such Data, repealing Directive 95/46/EC (General Data Protection Regulation), and with other regulations on personal data protection.

12.3. Privacy Policy

Any information about the processing of the personal data of the Data Subjects, about the rights of the Data Subjects and about the method of exercising them is laid down in the Company's Privacy Policy published at the foot of the Website.

12.4. The Company's Cookies Policy

By means of the Website, the Company places cookie files in the devices of the Customer and other visitors to the Website for various purposes. Any information about the use of cookie files on the Website is laid down in the Company's Cookies Policy published at the foot of the Website.

13. Termination of the Contract

13.1. Duration of the Contract

The duration of the Contract is specified in the Special Conditions of the Product. If such specification is not expressly stated in the Special Conditions of the Product, then it applies that the Contract is concluded for an indefinite period.

13.2. Agreement

The Parties may terminate the Contract early only on the basis of a mutual written agreement with a notice period of fourteen (14) days. In such a case, the Parties are obliged to settle all rights and duties between themselves.

13.3. Withdrawal

Either Party is entitled to withdraw from the Contract if the Contract was breached by the other Party in such a substantial manner based on which the withdrawing Party would never conclude the Contract. The Company is primarily entitled to withdraw from the Contract if the Customer breaches his/her duty to indicate the complete and true information in the Order Form under the Article 3.1 of these GBTC. For the avoidance of any doubt, the Parties have agreed that the fact that the price of Cryptocurrencies will decrease is not considered a significant breach of the Contract. Withdrawal is effective upon the delivery of a written notice to the other Party.

In the case of withdrawal, either Party is entitled to the return of the already provided performance, no later than within thirty (30) days from the effective withdrawal. The Customer is especially entitled to the right to reimbursement of the Payment or other payments made.

The Customer is not entitled to withdraw from the Contract without providing a reason within a standard deadline of fourteen (14) days from the date of conclusion of the Contract, because the activation of the Product represents the delivery of digital content and the Customer, in the Article 4.2 of these GBTC, expressly agrees with the activation of the Product before the expiry of the standard deadline for withdrawal.

13.4. Notice

The Company is entitled to terminate the Contract unilaterally, without giving a reason, with a notice period of fourteen (14) days from the date of delivery of a written notice to the Customer.

The Customer is entitled to unilaterally terminate the Contract with a notice period of fourteen (14) days from the date of delivery of the notification to the Company, unless he/she agrees with the change of the GBTC in accordance with 15.9 the Article of these GBTC, or with a change in the Special Conditions of the Product in accordance with the Article 4.1 of these GBTC. The notice must be sent no later than ten (10) days from the effective date of a new version of the GBTC or the Special Conditions of the Product.
